His Death Was Accidental.

Yesterday afternoon Coroner Hammett held an inquest in the case of George H. Wheeler, the clerk to the yardmaster of the New Jersey avenue yard, who was killed on the surface tracks Monday night, as heretofor several years. He had been relieved from his work some time before he was struck by an engine and killed. When the affair happened the engine was backing from the depot to the yard, and the dead man's hat was found in the ash pan of the engine. During the taking of the testimony at the inquest it was stated that the tracks along Virginia avenue near the Half street crossing are lighted only by gaslight, and the coroner said he thought they were of enough importance to be lighted by electricity. No one saw the unfortunate man when he was struck by the engine, but a telegraph operator heard his groans soon after he was in-jured and left on the track. The taking of the testimony was begun at 1 o'clock, but was not concluded until after 8 o'clock, engineer and fireman returned from Philadelphia. There was no evidence of carelessness or negligence on the part of the railroad men, and a verdict of accidental death was rendered.

TELEGRAPHERS ORGANIZED

Lafayette Square Opera House.—"A Western Union Company Said to Be Preparing for Trouble.

> This City Engaged to Go New York-Work of Deba

Recent statements that President Debs of the A. R. U. was organizing telegraph operators have given rise to much gossip and reports of trouble to occur between the telegraph companies and their employes.

It is understood that the Western Union Telegraph Company is quietly engaging a large force of operators throughout the country in anticipation of possible trouble with their present force. Within the past few days overtures have been received by many operators in this city who have been on the extra list for a long while, during which they have made but little time. They have been, as a Star reporter was informed, tendered positions on the regular force at $80 per month for six days' work per week. so per month for six days' work per week. So far all the men secured have been engaged with the understanding that they will be sent, if needed, to New York, but the proviso is made, it is said, that they may be assigned to duty in other cities, if their employers so decree.

It is understood that the reason for this sudden moved that the reason for this sudden moved.

sudden move on the part of the Western Union authorities was the discovery that the force of operators in the Pittsburg, Pa., offices have become identified with the American Railway Union through the ef-American Rahway Union through the efforts of the organizers sent there by President Debs of that organization. It is alleged that one of the members of the Pittsburg branch of the A. R. U. became frightened at the magnitude of the movement which, it is said, President Debs and his assistants are preparing to inaugurate and assistants are preparing to inaugurate, and informed the superintendent of the Pitts-burg division of the Western Union Company of what he had learred.

The superintendent was also furnished by the men with a list of the members of the Pittsburg branch of the A. R. U., and the official called some of the men before him. Seeing that the steps thus far taken by them were known to the telegraph offi-cial, the men admitted that they had be-come identified with the A. R. U.

Vice President and General Manager C. A. Tinker, whose headquarters are in New York, was informed by the Pittsburg official of his discovery, and Mr. Tinker summoned General Western Manager R. C. Clowery of Chicago to meet him at Pittsburg for consultation in reference to the situation. The conference took place early this week in the latter city, the superintendent of the Pittsburg district also being Previous to going to Pittsburg both Vice President Tinker and General Western Manager Clowery made an investigation of the extent which the movement among the telegraphers had assumed in the cities of New York and Chicago, and it is said they were amazed to learn that not only were most of the Western Union telegraphers in the cities named in active sympathy with the Debs organization, but that the organizers of the A. R. U. had been able to get in their work with astonishing success in many parts of the east and south, where it was not suspected that the A. K. U. was making any progress.

Orders have, it is said, been issued by Vice President Linker that all telegraphers in the employ of the Western Union Company who have become members of the American Railway Union must at once leave the latter or forfeit their positions with the Western Union. The telegraphers are awaiting further developments and will make no new movement in the matter excommittee, consisting of Messrs. L. Cabell Williamson, J. H. Lichliter and D. F. Harris, appented to perfect the details. It was definitely decided that an informal reception should be extended the new secretary April 1 in the assertion reception should be extended the new secretary April 1 in the assertion reception should be extended the new secretary April 1 in the assertion reception should be extended the new secretary April 1 in the assertion of the movement in the matter except as orders may be received from the headquarters of the order in Chicago. It is said that the operators of the Postal Telegraph Company have not been approached by the Debs' organizers, but it is known that some of the operators in Washington have been informed by West-

Boston Symphony Orchestra.-The fifth and last concert announced by the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Metzerott Hall next Tuesday evening will be made up en tirely of Wagner selections. The soloisi will be Mr. Ben Davies, the famous English tenor, whose selections will be the ever beautiful "Prize Song" from "Die Meistersinger" and the "Spring Song" from "Die Walkure." A most useful and interesting list of the works that have been performed during the season will be found in the analytical programs which have become so important a feature of these concerts.

The Ice Palace.-Miss Mabel Davidson made her first evening appearance at the Convention Hall ice rink last night, and probably never skated better in her life, and gave a good many evolutions and figures, which were not seen here during her last engagement. She wore a becoming Russian costume of pink with a fetching hat of the same color, and made an extremely pretty and bewitching appearance. Her dancing on the poluts of her skates Her dancing on the points of her skates and the long rolls which she did seemed to please the audience the most, but all of her movements were done with the greatest amount of grace and ease, stamping her at once as the real queen of the ice. Just as she was about to skate off she was taken in tow by Mr. Leonard, the head instructor of the rink, and though she did not know what was going to happen and tried to get away, she was taken out to the niddle of the rink and there presented with an immense floral skate, the gift of the employes of the rink. Miss Davidson is a prime fa-vorite with all of the employes at the ice vorite with all of the employes at the ice palace, and this was a testimonial of their regard. The skate stood on a bank of laurel leaves and la France roses, and was fully five feet long. The blade of the skate was of mirror glass, while the heel cap, shoe, clamps, strap and buckles were of red and white carnations. The skate was taken to the general reception room, and was the center of admiration until a late hour Miss. center of admiration until a late hour. Miscenter of admiration until a late hour. Miss, Davidson made a pretty little bow on receiving the tribute, and then she and Mr. Leonard drew it around the rink for the benefit of the spectators. Miss Davidson will be seen at the ice rink every evening this week at 9 o'clock and Saturday afterneon at 3 o'clock.

Miss Richards' Paris Lecture.-Miss Janet Elizabeth Richards will repeat her lecture on "Paris-Modern and Historic," which was given a short time ago to a crowded house, at the Church of Our Father next Saturday evening, and tickets are now on sale at Metzerott's. Miss Richards' lecture is most entertaining and instructive and should be heard by all who contemplate a trip to the gay French capital during the coming season. The lecture is illustrated and a number of new views have been added since the last presentation. The lecture is both narrative and descriptive and forms one of the most enjoyable talks of the sea-

Mrs. Tolman sued her husband for main to pay her $50. That was in 1892. He appealed to the Court of Appeals, contending that the court was without authority to make such an order. BOGUS GAS INSPECTORS. ..

An Attempt Made to Work the Dodge on Seventh Street. Some young man who was probably in seed of a few pennies for the necessaries of life or who probably wanted money for liquor made an effort to work the bogus gas inspector game on Mrs. Selinger, whose place of business is on 7th street, but did not succeed. He visited the place about 8 o'clock last evening, during the absence from home of Mrs. Selinger's husband, and said he had been sent there by the gas company. But Mrs. Selinger told him she wanted nothing done to the pipes. The young man insisted, however, that he must put on new tips, which would cost her nothing, and started from the store to the house, when Mrs. Selinger grabbed him-and made an outery.

A policeman responded to the call and made an effort to apprehend the bogus in-spector, but he had managed to get out of the store and had disappeared from the neighborhood

Inspector Hollinberger has received word from New York of the arrest in that city of the trgus gas inspector, who operated here several weeks ago, and who succeeded in getting considerable plunder. This included money, jewelry and other articles. When the man had made the several good hauls in three days he disappeared as mysteriously as he had appeared. None of the stolen goods appeared on the pawn lists nor was any of it recovered from where it had been sold, and nothing more was heard of him until he was arrested in the metropolis.

Then his photograph was sent here and fully identified, but as the New York authorities have several cases against him thorities have several cases against this he will probably not be brought here for trial, but will be tried there. He is an Englishman less than thirty years of age. His real name is Archibald Hanker, but in New York he gave his name as John A.

Hanker, alias Page, lived here about four years ago. When he appeared at the British legation at that time and related a tale ish legation at that time and related a tale of woe he was given employment as a footman. This position he filled with satisfaction to his employer, and while there he took nothing, so far as is known. He was given so good a recommendation that he found no trouble in getting a position at the house of Prof. Hinckley, No. 1310 Massachusetts avenue. About the time he left there a watch disappeared, but not until the arrest of the man in New York did suspicion of this theft rest on him. Soon afterward he worked for Mrs. McLean on Vermont avenue, and it was after Lean on Vermont avenue, and it was after his employment here ceased that he operated as a bogus gas inspector. Should the New York authorities fail to hold the prisoner he will be brought here.
